(in-person)

We are delighted to make an early announcement for our upcoming programme for men. Following on from our first event earlier this year we are offering an opportunity to look at the theme of relationships and the part men have to play in them. We will be coming to the territory through a combination of story and myth and the framework of Parker Palmer's Courage & Renewal approach.

This is a first notice, inviting expressions of interest, and offering an early bird discount. Full price will be £350 per person (not including accommodation) and for those booking prior to 31st July the discounted rate is £275.

Full programme details will be provided later in the summer. If you would like to discuss your interest beforehand please contact us.

Look forward to hear from you,

Will & Giles
