

Haves' and Have Nots': Exploring Privilege, Power & Oppression

with Anisha Pandya & Giles Barrow

Thursday 15th April - Saturday 17th April

On-line

In any sphere of life where there is inequality of opportunity the default dream of the oppressed will be simply to become the oppressor.

Yogesh Parmar

We invite you to dive deeper into examining and exploring the different faces of oppression - agism, racism, sexism, ableism, casteism and heterosexism - to explore how privilege and power operate, the interconnections between privilege and power, who has them and how the unacknowledged and mis-use of privilege and power can lead to oppression

Workshop Objectives:

- Exploring how privilege operates at individual and group levels
- Recognizing the multi-dimensional and layered dynamics of privilege
- Becoming aware of how privilege exists within each of us
- Working through our shame and guilt around privilege
- Recognizing the benefit and cost of our experience of privilege
- Identifying the skills needed in becoming part of the solution in creating a more inclusive world

The format will include sharing of relevant material, although the emphasis will be on personal experience, group process and discussion.

Timings: 9:00am - 4:00pm (GMT)

Cost: 25 000 RS/£250:00/Eu 290/ $350

Facilitators

Anisha Pandya (PTSTA - P) & Giles Barrow (TSTA - E)

To reserve your place please contact:

Giles: giles.barrow@virgin.net

Anisha: anisha.pandya@gmail.com