

Tristan & Isolde

A Tale for Autumn

After a couple of years resting somewhere in the mythic world, Tristan & Isolde will be making a return to Mill House, Suffolk for a weekend telling. This is the European romantic epic that sets the scene for the modern notion of love, introduces the psychological dynamic to ancient story and challenges ideas of marriage, ecstatic passion and friendship. Complete with witchery, treachery, insatiable lust and despair, what's not to like?

We will gather on Friday evening for a short story to warm us around the hearth, settling in readiness for the opening of our epic tale that will span Saturday and Sunday. There will be time to take the stories into the fields and garden, opportunities to draft poetry, reflect around the fire and be amongst others who love telling tales.

Practicalities:

Dates and times: Fri 24th Oct (6pm) to Sun 26th Oct mid-afternoon
Venue: Mill House, Mill Hill, Earl Soham, IP13 7RP
Cost: £210 (exc. accommodation and meals)

You are welcome to sleep over, free of charge in the granary or yurt, or to camp in the field.

Interested? Book your place by contacting Giles at: giles.barrow@gmail.com

